Anchorage Superior Court

Date: September 13, 2011

I grew up in Sitka, Alaska, and I went to college in California. After graduating from law school in 1996, I moved to Anchorage, along with my future husband, to clerk for an Anchorage Superior Court judge. We have enjoyed all that Alaska has to offer, and we have made Anchorage our home.

I have been working at Ashburn & Mason, P.C., for 11 years. During that time, I have litigated a variety of matters, including employment, oil and gas, and general commercial law cases.

If appointed to the superior court, I would work hard to make timely and reasoned decisions. I would also treat all litigants and their representatives with respect.
