Anchorage Superior Court

Date: 9/14/11

I was born in Ohio and raised in an Air Force family. I attended Miami University of Ohio. I practiced as a licensed social worker for St. Vincent de Paul in Dayton, Ohio assisting the local homeless population and victims of domestic violence. I was inspired by a group of pro bono attorneys and attended law school at Northeastern University in Boston. After an Alaska Superior Court clerkship, I prosecuted local and rural misdemeanors in Fairbanks for four years and learned to love the outdoors. I continued prosecuting sexual assaults in Anchorage (75+ trials). I then worked for OPA as a GAL in CINA cases, a defense attorney in delinquency and adult criminal cases, as well as handling guardianship and custody cases. I recently opened my own practice and that has proven to be a real challenge. I'm an outdoor enthusiast who loves to run, hike, fish and ski.
