Position(s) for which you wish to be considered:

Anchorage Superior Court

Date: September 13, 2011

I was raised in Baltimore, Maryland, along with five brothers and sisters. I attended Amherst College, graduating in 1977. I then spent two years at a private school in Connecticut teaching high school English and Psychology.

I migrated to the west coast and attended the University of Washington Law School, graduating in 1982. During school years I worked for a Seattle public defender agency and a maritime firm.

Many of the maritime disputes involved Alaska, and led me to take a summer job in Anchorage with Richmond & Associates. I returned after graduating. I've worked at the same firm, now called Richmond & Quinn, ever since.

Our office handles civil litigation, from small claims to class actions. With talented colleagues and staff, we have developed a successful, challenging practice which intersects with every corner of Alaska.

Personal: Married to Mary Pinkel, also a member of the Alaska Bar; two children.
