Name Don McClintock

Position(s) for which you wish to be considered:

Alaska Supreme Court

Date: January 27, 2012

I was born in Japan to a career Army father and a Japanese mother. As one of my family's first generation of college graduates, I graduated from Stanford University and from Harvard Law School. Justice Warren Matthews hired me to clerk for the Alaska Supreme Court in 1980 and sparked my love for Alaska. My practice with Ashburn and Mason has varied from criminal law, general litigation and family law, land use and eminent domain litigation, to my current real estate development, commercial and business practice. My colleagues have rewarded me with Best Lawyer, Super Lawyer, Chambers USA band 1, and AV ratings. My varied work with individual, small business and institutional clients has given me perspective, and raising my family has hopefully given me wisdom. If allowed to serve the state, I can promise to work hard and to act with respect and courtesy to bench and bar.
